

Hello,

My name is Carla, and I came to Ireland for one school year for practice my English.

In the beginning it was a little bit difficult because my English isn't good, but now I improve it a lot. My host family is a nice family and they helped me with some things that I needed.

Sometimes, when you come to a different country, is difficult starts all and try to speak in other language, but if you are confrontable, all is more easier.

For me, one of the most important points in Ireland, were my friends, they were a one part of my family her in Ireland, and they helped me always with a lot of things. My experience in Ireland has been weird because is a different culture and country, but at the same time has been very good and I learned a lot of English. I'm going to miss a lot of things, for example, my friends, and Ireland in general.
