

Hi,

I'm Lotta and I am currently living in Kinsale, Ireland. Here I go to the Kinsale community school and am staying with a lovely family a bit outside of the town. The past year has been a great opportunity to meet new people, make friends from all around the world and experience Irish culture first hand.

Kinsale is a town full of colourful houses, a beautiful harbour, and people, who will welcome you warmly. Here you get to enjoy living in a beautiful small town, while still having access to Cork city, which is just a 40-minute bus drive from the town, making it perfect for weekends.

Over the last months I spent my days strolling through Kinsale with my friends after school and going to the city on the weekend. There are endless things to do and see around Cork, so you will never get bored or run out of things to do.

Now that my year in Ireland is coming to an end, I can say that I would always choose to come here again and can't recommend it enough to anyone who is thinking about doing an exchange year.

Lotta Garz
